

About the game

Neon Nova Ultra Space Rumble is the ultimate laser arena brawler any sane soul has to play at least once. It's as addicting as taking a nap when you actually have work to do and just can't stop. You invite your friends or if you don't have any, just ask some random people you find on the street. You need three other players and as many controllers to get the ultimate fun started. Well if you don't have four controllers this is your chance to make the best investment in your life so far and probably for quite a long time or just make the people you invite bring their own controller. Whatever rows your boat.

One of you will be chosen and granted with unimaginable power only a boss is worthy of, well you are the boss so it's going to be fine. The other three fulfill the roles of heroes to take down this megalomaniac. Don't worry my friends, you won't go empty handed, you are heroes after all and not to be underestimated.

The one claiming the tank role is able to block any damage the boss can evoke. You are the tank! Protect your team mates.

Everyone loves doing damage. Take on the boss and claim your position as the ultimate bruiser! You are the only one in the team who is able of harming the boss directly.

Last but not least is what we call affectionately "the victim". You are important, don't be disappointed! After all you have to dodge this nasty sizzling orb following you around at all times. If you are skillful, lead the approaching globe of doom into the boss. Even though seeming almighty, the boss isn't immune to the damage of this sphere either.

But careful, if you are hit it will deal a huge amount of damage to you and your team. Yes, all of you. You are team, you are one, so naturally you share one health bar. Remember, a trouble shared is a trouble halved!

Now comes the interesting part! The boss will change colors just like this cute little animal. Indeed, the octopus! It will take more damage if a hero with the identical color attacks it. Right, you have to switch roles if you want to succeed and proclaim victory in the arena.

You will face another hardship when the boss changes colors of its attacks. Better switch the tank role to match the color, if not you and your allies will take more damage than any of you would like to.

Remember this game is all about having fun with your friends or soon to be friends. And of course about winning, everyone likes to win! Be victorious in the Neon Nova Ultra Space Rumble!
